Metallized film capacitors have "self-healing" properties, which are not available from film/foil configurations. When sufficient voltage is applied, a point-defect short-circuit between the metallized electrodes vaporizes due to high arc temperature, since both the dielectric plastic material at the breakdown point and the metallized electrodes around the breakdown point are very thin (about ... JFJ - Mini Box Stacked Metallized Polyester Film Capacitor ... In the case of metallized capacitors, thin layers of aluminium (approx. 0.03  $\mu\text{m}$ ) are vacuum-deposited on the insulating film as conducting electrodes. In the case of a breakdown, the short circuit current causes the thin metal coating to evaporate around the point of failure and an insulating area is formed. Metallized Polyethylene Naphthalate Film Capacitor ... Film capacitors are capacitors which use a thin plastic film as the dielectric. This film is made extremely thin using a sophisticated film drawing process. Once the film is manufactured, it may be metallized or left untreated, depending on the needed properties of the capacitor. Film Capacitor | Types | Capacitor Guide In film capacitors higher temperatures may shrink the plastic film changing the capacitor's properties. Pulse currents, especially in metallized film capacitors, heat the contact areas between end spray (schoopage) and metallized electrodes. This may reduce the contact to the electrodes, heightening the dissipation factor.
