We Become What We Worship A His main thesis is stated in the title of the book: we become like what we worship. We are by nature worshiping creatures, and we will eventually become like what we worship. If that is God, we will be molded into God's image (which is what we were created to do). But if we worship idols, we will become like idols. Beale demonstrates that this idea about idolatry and worship permeates the Scripture. We Become What We Worship: A Biblical Theology of Idolatry ... Greg Beale titled his landmark book We Become What We Worship. His thesis is simple: "What people revere, they resemble, either for ruin or for restoration." He traces the theme throughout Scripture to show that we are worshippers, and that our worship exposes us and changes us. We Become What We Worship | Desiring God " We Become What We Worship is biblical theology at its best, weaving together Old and New Testament texts into a unified message. Beale's work is original yet traditional, profound yet simple, exegetical yet 'hyperexegetical,' sometimes provocative yet always profitable, for the scholar yet for every serious Christian. We Become What We Worship - InterVarsity Press Our reading connects what we worship to what we become: "they followed emptiness and became empty" (15b, NABRE). While the NIV reads "worthless" and this is a valid translation, the Hebrew word also carries the sense of "being without substance." WE BECOME WHAT WE WORSHIP - Scripture Union We become what we worship. That is to say, we emulate—or become like—the people (and things) we most admire. To understand this concept, we have to understand the origins of the word worship. We Become What We Worship - In God's Image We become what we worship - NT Wright When human beings give their heartfelt allegiance to and worship that which is not God, they progressively cease to reflect the image of God. We become what we worship - NT Wright - KeithFerrin.com This psalm is a sobering reminder that we become like what we worship. Therefore, we should be careful not only to avoid false idols, but also to not worship some warped caricature of God that we have invented in our own minds, rather than the true and living God, who has revealed himself in the person of Jesus Christ. We Become Like What We Worship: Psalm 115 - Seedbed In worship, we are transformed and in being transformed we either become more human or less so. I cannot cite a reference to confirm this, but I think it gets at something important. There is a sense where by worshipping God and being conformed into the image of His Son by the work of His Spirit that we become more real. We Become Like What We Worship - Capturing Christianity "We become what we worship" is the basic insight of G K Beale's book of the same name. Unfortunately it's an "academic" book and, like most academic books, suffers from being twice as long and complicated as it ought to be (where have all the brave editors gone?). We Become What we Worship | HeadHeartHand Blog For an explanation of the title, see p. 12: "The title We Become What We Worship is a metaphor, which is an implied simile, omitting the word like between We Become and What We Worship. The thesis of the book is not that people become the idols they worship or become the God they worship, but they become like the idols or like God. *We Become What We Worship: A Biblical Theology of Idolatry ...
